Project title: Access to the Teaching Profession for Non-pedagogical Majors
Coordinator Hämeen ammattikorkeakoulu Oy Johanna Tervo johanna.tervo@hamk.fi	Ukraine faces a shortage of qualified teachers due to war-related displacement and an ageing workforce. Graduates with subject-specific bachelor's degrees lack a clear pathway to gain pedagogical qualifications after graduation. The project addresses this by developing a recognised 48 ECTS pedagogical qualification programme for non-pedagogical degree holders aligned with European teacher education standards. Implemented by Häme University of Applied Sciences (HAMK) and V.N. Karazin Kharkiv National University (KKNU), the project integrates benchmarking, joint curriculum design and staff mobility. The programme will be embedded in KKNU's operations and piloted as a flexible, practice-oriented teacher education model to support educational reform and long-term teacher supply in Ukraine.
