Project title: Learning Across Indigenous Contexts: Advancing Community Participation in Public Policy, Chile–Finland
Coordinator Lapin yliopisto Saara Alakorva saara.alakorva@ulapland.fi	This project advances learning across Indigenous contexts through the joint design and delivery of a collaborative online course connecting students from Chile and Finland to explore Indigenous governance, community participation and public policy in the Sámi homeland in Lapland and the Mapuche territory in La Araucanía. Activities include online seminars, guided intercultural dialogue and bi-national teamwork. Students will co-design applied territorial projects supporting Indigenous led policy engagement, with the highest-rated proposal implemented collaboratively using a Learning + Service methodology. Expected impacts include strengthened Indigenous participation in public policy, deeper understanding of Indigenous knowledge systems and sustained community–university collaboration.
