Project title: Local and Global Approaches to Nature-based Crafts and Making
Coordinator Itä-Suomen yliopisto Niina Väänänen niina.vaananen@uef.fi	The Local and Global Approaches to Nature-Based Crafts and Making project responds to a clearly identified educational and societal need shared across partner countries: a need to strengthen sustainable, culturally grounded, and inclusive approaches to HE in a global context. The project aims and expected outcomes are • Co-develop culturally and locally grounded, transdisciplinary approaches to Nature Based Crafts and Making in global HE contexts. • Promote the exchange of knowledge, skills, and practices through mobility and virtual collaboration, strengthening the intercultural understanding and professional competencies of students and staff. • Document, valorise, and translate traditional knowledge, natural resources, and craft practices into structured, transferable learning content.
Partners Tshwane University of Technology (TUT) University of Antananarivo-École Supérieure des Sciences Agronomiques Associate partner: Abundant Futures NPC Associate partner: National Centre for Industrial and Technological Research
